returning to their farms four days ago and so it was a unanimous decision to let the sentence stand. The sentence of Judge Woodruff, who has been instrumental in getting up the farm of 40 acres near Ponca City, was suspended and which nearly ended his sentence for the disturbance he caused.

All the defendants used in the organization of Ponca Muskies finally. They are members of the 1920 class and said they would go to Ponca City April 15. Although former to register at the prison all of them had their draft boards and fliers in their pockets.

The 800 or so now said a W. Miller, federal prosecutor, is proceeding the case when the cases were called for trial yesterday afternoon to enter their plea of guilty. All the men with families are not to be sent to Ponca City, he said, but those with them I expect the court will show them leniency.

Then the defendants, surrounded by their wives and small children, who presented a unique spectacle in the courtroom, arose and entered their plea of guilty. As the prosecutor addressed the court the women with bowed heads, bowed their heads. The attorney general and the two partners joined around the court apparently in doubt as to whether a life sentence or an indefinite sentence were to be passed upon them.

Finally, when Judge Woodruff said he would take their cases under advisement until today, Monroe Peterson asked the court if sentence could not be pronounced at once. We're all working men and hate to pay any from home, he said, and if it's possible we'd like to know tonight."

"A day in jail with costs to the government," said Judge Woodruff, and smiles played over the faces of the defendants all of whom filed forward to shake the hand of Mr. Miller, who had urged clemency. Then, accompanied by deputy marshals, the five defendants were taken to the jail, the door of the "around" was locked after them. They were led past the cells and back to the door again. The turkey swam open, the five prisoners passed out and they had served their sentences. A minute in jail as good as a day and they had paid the penalty for their "conscientious objecting" to going to war.

In the federal building they gathered on their wives and babies and the pilgrimage back to Ponca was under way.

BOYS TO GET STRIPES FOR SERVICE ON FARMS

One of the special marks of recognition which it is thought will be an incentive for the boys of the working reserve to put in a full summer on the farms as allotted by the reserve, will be service stripes on the order of the army service stripes, which will show the length of service of members of the reserve, according to Howard Meyer, associate state director.

This plan was proposed last year but on account of the large amount of work the reserve officials had no action was taken until this year. The plans as proposed are to give each boy who puts in two months or more service, a green service stripe to be worn on the right sleeve and for three months of service a green service stripe with a yellow background.

Although the enrollment period closed last week there has been a large number of boys who have applied at the reserve headquarters for enlistment in the reserve and due to the need of a larger number they have been accepted, said Mr. Meyer.

The minister has notified the Swedish government that the French government refuses to recognize such concessions and declares that those accepting them do so at their own risk.
